One blue canvas money bag. One Khaki top money bag fitted for locking seal. Checked out by G. F. Rose on March 2, 1964, taken to the District Attorney's office and not returned.

Under miscellaneous articles:

correspondence, newspapers, pictures, note book, billfold, club passes, miscellaneous papers, keys. Checked out March 2, 1964 by R. E. Swain and taken to the District Attorney's Office and not returned.

After checking the property room I find that only two articles belonging to Jack Ruby are still in our possession in the property room, and these are: One man's wristwatch and one man's ring.

All other property is in the possession of the District Attorney's office or Judge Brown's court, and the money has been released to the Internal Revenue Department.

The ring and watch were shown to me by Mr. Hill, and he also states that this is all that remains of Jack Ruby's property that we have in our possession.
